MASS MEETING AT CHAMBER COMMERCE

To be Held Tonight to Formulate Plans for Search of Body of S. P. Coffrain and to Raise Funds

Lake George Will Soon Freeze Up, Rendering Increasingly Difficult the Location of the Remains

A mass meeting will be held at the Chamber of Commerce this evening, called by friends of the late Selwyn P. Coffrain, who was drowned while duck hunting in Lake George, and a systematic plan of search for the body will be mapped out and funds raised to carry on the work.

The response must be prompt as the lake will soon freeze over, retaining the body all winter and causing endless trouble to locate the remains next spring, when the ice goes out and may crush the remains.

There is no need to say that Mrs. Coffrain, the widow, will appreciate all aid extended to assist her in the search. She has used all her slender resources coupled with the aid of lodges and friends to locate the body and all efforts so far made have been unsuccessful in locating the same.

The response to this appeal should be prompt and hearty. Everybody is asked to come up to the Chamber of Commerce this evening. The meeting is called for 7:30 o'clock.

"Fisherman John," of Stillwater, is expected Saturday. Clarence A. Olson returned last night from Lake George where he has been during the past week assisting in the search for the body of Selwyn P. Coffrain. Mr. Olson says that the party has been unsuccessful as yet although the search has been systematic and faithful.

About thirty acres, or what would amount to that area if it was on land, has been dragged and the waters have been staked out so that no section of the bottom of the lake would be missed.

One thing that has been confusing has been the different and conflicting stories told regarding the wind on the day that the accident occurred and which upsets all calculations as to where Mr. Coffrain was when he upset in the duck boat and went to the bottom. The boat was found on shore and of course the wind carried it there from the scene of the accident, and if it was absolutely certain as to which way it came from it would have been much easier to direct the work.

The balance of the searching party remained at Lake George and will prosecute the work until all means have been exhausted.

BAKER SAYS ATTACK IS BEING PLANNED

Washington, Oct. 27.—Secretary Baker issued a formal statement here saying that definite information had been received by the war department that a bandit attack upon American troops in Mexico or upon an American border town had been arranged to take place between now and election day to create sentiment against the administration's Mexican policy.

It added that Generals Funston and Pershing were forewarned and in readiness for such an attack.

No additional information could be obtained from Mr. Baker, who left the city before the statement was made public for Martinsburg, W. Va., to deliver a campaign speech.

Mr. Baker did not disclose the source of his information, made no specific charges against any one in the United States, but by mentioning the date of election sought to give to his statement the inference the raids, if made, are to be for political effect.

Secretary of State Lansing hastened to state Mr. Baker referred to no American citizens and did not issue his statement for political effect. He said the department of justice is investigating.

BERLIN TELLS OF DOBRUDJA GAINS

Teutons Also Claim Victory on Transylvania Front.

FRENCH TAKE TWO VILLAGES

Kaiser's Troops Suffer Heavy Loss in Attack on British Near Thiepval and Fail in Douaumont, but Stop Russian Sortie.

London, Oct. 27.—Except for the announcement the Rumanians, before their retreat from Tchernavoda, blew up the big bridge spanning the Danube river, thereby placing an obstacle in the way of the advance of the Teutonic allies from Dobrudja into old Rumania, if such a move were intended, little fresh knowledge of the real situation in that sector of the world's war has been vouchsafed by either the Rumanian or Teutonic war office.

Berlin asserts the Teutonic allies still are making progress in Dobrudja against the Rumanians and Russians. Along the Transylvania front the Rumanians and Austro-Germans are still engaged in hard fighting at various points. Berlin reports that in the Trotus valley and on the roads of Sinaya and Campulung the Teutonic allies have met further successes. On the other hand, Bucharest asserts the Austro-Germans have been driven from the entire western frontier of Moldavia, Northern Rumania, suffering heavy casualties, and that in the Uzul and Oltuz valleys Rumanian arms also have been successful.

German Attacks Fail.

Again the Germans have delivered counter-attacks—four in number—against the newly won French positions at Douaumont, in the region of Verdun, but, like all their efforts since the big drive Tuesday, they were without success. Similarly a violent attack against the British in the St. Eloi trench, north of the famous St. Eloi redoubt near Thiepval, was put down. In the wooded region of the Carpathian mountains the Germans essayed assaults against the Russians, but, according to the Petrograd war office, their efforts failed.

In Volhynia, to the west of Lutsk, the Russians, without previous artillery preparations, attempted to storm with infantry a German position. The German artillery, however, broke the sortie.

Two villages southwest of Lake Doiran, on the Macedonian front—Golbrda and Laisitza—have been captured by the French.

The Austrians are holding an intense artillery fire on the Italian positions in Gorizia.

ORDERS PROBE OF SEIZURE

State Department Will Investigate Act of British Warship.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Inquiry into the seizure by a British warship of mail from the Dutch steamer Arakan on the high seas, bound from Borneo to Manila, has been ordered by the state department.

The Arakan was reported recently by the Dutch minister here to have been held up Aug. 30 by a British ship and all its mails, bound to an American port taken off.

In cases of mails and packages removed from British ships on the way to Manila the United States some time ago procured informal expressions of regret and a promise to abandon the practices.

Before a large audience at the high school this afternoon, Mrs. Henry Theviot presented to the school the fine silk flag donated by the State convention of the Woman's Relief Corps.

Mrs. Theviot is the president of Pap Thomas Woman's Relief Corps, No. 47. She has served as a delegate to state and national conventions of the order.

The flag is a most expensive one, the pole being surmounted with a gold eagle, gold tassels and having also a shoulder strap and belt for carrying the same on parade and other occasions.

Members of the W. R. C., G. A. R., Post Circle ladies, G. A. R. and many other citizens were present. A patriotic program was presented.

In presenting the flag, Mrs. Bertha Theviot said:

"An honor was conferred upon me by our Department of Minnesota Woman's Relief Corps to present this beautiful flag to our high school in this city, an honor, yes thrice honored, for what flag is more beautiful, more glorious and more honored than the Stars and Stripes of America.

"Poets have written about it; artists have sung of it and brave men have defended it and died for it.

"The symbol of the nation is its flag. To dishonor the flag, you insult the nation, and every patriotic man and woman will arise to resent an insult that is offered to it.

"When abroad or at home, it protects alike the mansion of the rich and humble cot of the poor.

"I take pleasure in presenting to you, my dear children, this beautiful flag of our country.

"Guard well the flag with faith and hope and better days to be. Tell its story to the children, and in days of peace and cruel strife, tell them it is their's to cherish and defend it with their life."

A wordy argument at the freight depot this morning caused a crowd to congregate there. One Peppinger and his brother-in-law, Earl Mohler, had a debate at short range. Peppinger appealed to the city attorney, claiming Mohler has assaulted him and was trying to "get him" and he wanted his pugnacious relative bound over to keep the peace.

It was an old fashioned barber's meeting at the Stallman shop in the Citizens State bank block this morning. "Bill" Woods, formerly of Brainerd and Pine River and now located 300 miles from Winnipeg up in Canada, was visiting around and recounting old and new times. He now resides at Sturgis, Saskatchewan, where he owns a fine farm of 160 acres and is prospering.

Yesterday P. B. Nettleton sold the have secured work in the new paper mill and will move their families here as soon as they can get possession, about Nov. 1st. This is only a small illustration of some of the benefits of new industries to Brainerd.

ANOTHER WET SPOT

The Carter-Larson Auto Co. It is reported, is to establish a wholesale liquor house at this city, expressed his high regard for the Master Mediwho lives at 1523 Seventh street, southeast, is well known here and his statement should therefore deeply impress many people, men and women.

Gentle—But Sure

Biliousness, sick headache, sour stomach, gas, bloating, constipation, dyspepsia—all these distressing consequences of retaining a mass of undi-kept open and regular. Foley Cathar-

The Difference.

what you get."

TWO MILLION DRUG USERS

Estimate of Chief of Internal Revenue Bureau.

New York, Oct. 27.—More than 1, 000,000 persons in the United States are known drug users and as many more use drugs in secret, the members of the American Medical Editors' association were told at a meeting here.

The speaker was B. C. Keith, chief of the miscellaneous division of the internal revenue bureau, who also said that drug addicts were to be found in every district of the country, even in those sparsely settled.

A dramatic plea for the drug users was made by Dr. Frank S. Abbott, formerly of Brooklyn, but now of California. He declared that drug victims should have the same treatment from society as drunkards and asked the association to recommend the standardization of national and state laws regarding users of drugs.

Petrograd's Bridges.

The river Neva has a breadth of from 500 to 700 yards and forms one of the principal beauties of Petrograd.
Its waters are clear as crystal and very deep. Every second it carries 1,750,000 cubic feet of pure water beneath the bridges and its depth is so great that the largest ships can be docked alongside its granite embankments.
The pontoon bridges are removed in autumn and spring, as well as when the ice from Lake Ladoga comes down the Neva in the beginning of May.— London Chronicle.

He Anticipated Her.

"Do you love me?" murmured the beautiful girl.

"I do; also I'm strong for suffrage,

A girl doesn't like to have all her questions anticipated.—Louisville Courier-

HE HEARTILY PRAISES TANLAC

"This Preparation is the Only Medicine That Has Ever Given Me Relief." Well Known Minneapolis Man Asserts

Minneapolis, Minn., October 27—
"Tanlac is the only medicine that has given me relief," was the frank and earnest manner in which A. C. Ellis, a coal dealer of this city, expressed his high regard for the Master Medicine on September 20. Mr. Ellis, who lives at 1523 Seventh street,
southeast, is well known here and his
statement should therefore deeply impress many people, men and women.

"I was troubled with enlargement of the veins," Mr. Ellis said. "This caused me to experience pains in legs, similar to those due resulting from rheumatism. My condition became so bad at times that I would have to bind my limbs in order that I might get around."

"I read accounts in the newspapers of how Tanlac was helping other people and I decided to give the new medicine a trial. The swelling of the veins was greatly relieved before I had finished the first bottle of Tanlac and the pains do not bother me so much now. This medicine has relieved my trouble and I recommend it."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is essleeplessness, loss of appetite and the like.

Tanlac is now being specially in-

Biliousness, sick headache, sour
stomach, gas, bloating, constipation,
dyspepsia—all these distressing consequences of retaining a mass of undig-ested and fermenting food in the stomach are avoided if the bowels are kept open and regular. Foley Cathar-

The Difference.

Estimate of Chief of Internal Revenue Bureau.

New York, Oct. 27.—More than 1, 000,000 persons in the United States
are known drug users and as many
more use drugs in secret, the members
of the American Medical Editors' association were told at a meeting here.

The speaker was B. C. Keith, chief
internal revenue bureau, who also
said that drug addicts were to be found in every district of the country,
even in those sparsely settled.

A dramatic plea for the drug users
was made by Dr. Frank S. Abbott, formerly of Brooklyn, but now of California. He declared that drug victims should have the same treatment
from society as drunkards and asked
standardization of national and state laws regarding users of drugs.

Petrograd's Bridges.

The river Neva has a breadth of
of the principal beauties of Petrograd.
Its waters are clear as crystal and
very deep. Every second it carries
neath the bridges, and its depth is so great that the largest ships can be docked at its granite embankments.
The pontoon bridges are removed in autumn and spring, as well as when
the ice from Lake Ladoga comes down
the Neva in the beginning of May.—

He Anticipated Her.

beautiful girl.

"I do, also I'm strong for suffrage, like your poodle and think I can get

But she didn't accept him, after all.
A girl doesn't like to have all her questions anticipated. — Louisville Courier

"This Preparation is the Only Medicine That Has Ever Given Me Relief." Well Known Minneapolis Man Asserts

"Tanlac is the only medicine that has given me relief," was the frank and
earnest manner in which A. C. Ellis,
a coal dealer of this city, expressed
his high regard for the Master Medicine on September 29. Mr. Ellis, who lives at 1523 Seventh street,
southeast, is well known here and his
statement should therefore deeply impress many people, men and women.

"I was troubled with enlargement
of the veins," Mr. Ellis said. "This caused me to experience pains in legs,
similar to those due resulting from rheumatism. My condition became
might get around."

"I read accounts in the newspapers
of how Tanlac was helping other
people and I decided to give the new
medicine a trial. The swelling of
I had finished the first bottle of Tanlac and the pains do not bother
me so much now. This medicine has relieved my trouble and I recommend
it."

sleeplessness, loss of appetite and the like.

WOMAN'S REALM

Tried to Make the Coffee Clear

BY MARGARET MASON.

(Written for the United Press.)
Sure Mocha and Java, well mixed, and ground fine
Is coffee I always have ordered for mine.

My mother before me, my grandmother too
Have always insisted on this blended brew.

But now I must shatter traditions, I see,
For Mocha and Java I've picked from one tree.

Sao Paulo, Brazil, Oct. 1 (By Mail)
—This certainly is going to be an awful blow to the domestic coffee connoisseurs. The epicures who smack their lips and extol the elusive flavor of the Java as it subtly intermingles with the Mocha.

Indeed it furnishes me coffee grounds for surprise when I found the Mocha and Java not only growing on the same family tree, but even on the same branch of the family.

The best way to settle the coffee question is to take a night's train trip from Rio to Sao Paulo. The state of Sao Paulo is the greatest coffee growing country in the world.
It's capital, city of Sao Paulo, is justly dubbed the "Chicago of South America." A two hours run by train brings us to the little town of Campinias right out in the midst of the open rolling coffee country.

The "King" of Campinas himself took us by auto out through the coffee plantations. He is a king by my own dubbing. This successful North American from Lawrence, Kansas, chose to make light of my appellation just as he chose to make light of Campinas. You see he controls the electric light plant and the traction line in Campinas as well as in thirteen other small Brazilian towns.
Surely a neat little crown of inces-cent bulbs is not amiss above his brow.

I've heard of people painting the town red but they would be helpless to incarnadine further the country of Sao Paulo. All the soil is of a marvelous redness shading to vivid crimsons and rose. With its billowing red hills it is startlingly reminiscent of San Diego county, California.
Showing a Hibernian tendency these hills all have the green of the coffee trees above the red soil. As far as the eye can see the coffee plantations stretch away into the distance. Some plantations boast of over a million trees.

To speak of coffee trees is very misleading. In reality they are like nothing so much as big lilac bushes except that the leaves are smaller.
The coffee berry itself looks like a cherry turning from green to a bright cherry red through its different stages of ripeness. Unlike the cherry, however, the coffee berry grows in clusters, interspersed with leaves, closely fastened, without stems, to the branches of the tree. It has little pulp and no juice and the coffee beans proper form the heart of the berry like a cherry pit split into halves.

And here is where the difference between the Mocha and Java comes
in. Not being a prize student of botany I don't know the technical terms but something happens to the stamen of some coffee blossoms so that they make stunted beans and round of shape which are called Java while the perfect Mocha beans are large and oval in contour. So it's just the subtle difference in their shapes you taste when they are all ground up together.

In coffee picking time even the littlest tots help in the harvest. Everybody works, even father. The picking consists in stripping all the berries off right down the branch. As the leaves get in somewhat on the general strip, after the harvest, the poor old coffee tree looks a bit denuded.

The berries are striped off and allowed to fall on the ground where they are raked up and carried away in baskets.

The next step is to spread them out on an open cement court to dry in the sun.

When the berries are all shriveled and dried to the consistency of husks they are put through successive machines that husk them and separate the Mocha beans from the Java.
They finally land in sacks ready to be shipped down to Santos and exported.

As you sip your Turkish, French or, U. S. A., coffee you may be almost sure it has a Brazilian past. For it is only by the different degrees and processes of roasting in the different countries to which it is sent that the good old native Brazilian bean becomes disguised as a terrible Turk or in true Parisian manner, starts a li-son with chicoree and becomes "cafe."

I have tried to make this coffee clear for you, to show you just where your coffee's bean. I hope it all has percolated.

ZOELLNER STRING QUARTET

One of the Greatest Quartets in the World to Play Under Auspices
Brainerd Musical Club

The Zoellner string quartet will give a concert at Elks hall on Wednesday evening, November 1, under the auspices of the Brainerd Musical club.

The Zoellner Quartet is recognized as one of the great string quartets of the world, and the European success of this superb organization is being duplicated in America.

A lofty adherence to classic traditions, a keen sense of proportion, and a refreshing spontaneity of effort combine to produce the flawless ensemble, the exquisite shadings and the tonal beauty which characterizes the playing of the Zoellners.

To the discriminating mind the chamber music concert, especially the string quartet, appeals as the very highest in music, for through the string quartet one meets face to face the spirit of music in its inmost shrine.

This organization is noted for the interesting new novelties that it brings out each season; these new works have always proved of worth and great interest. In the matter of "building up" a program they have also reached perfection, for as one critique said in his criticism of the Zoellner Quartet, "Their program was a gem of the program maker's art," and this same opinion is always verified by their audiences.

The annual New York, Boston, etc., recitals of the Zoellner Quartet are now looked forward to as events of the musical season and in each succeeding appearance the critics have discovered new beauties in the playing of these remarkable artists. Nothing, perhaps, speaks more eloquently for the definite growth of musical taste in America than the almost instant success that has come to the Zoellner String Quartet.

Home Cooking Sale

tional church will hold a home cooking sale at the Slipp-Gruenhagen Co. store Monday afternoon.

BLAME MOTOR CARS FOR BABY PLAGUE

Cincinnati, Oct. 27.—Automobiles, not germs, are to blame for the epidemic of infantile paralysis that has swept the country, according to the assertion made by Dr. Thomas F. Harrington, deputy commissioner of health of Massachusetts, in an address before the annual convention here of the American Public Health association.

"Infantile paralysis is due to chemical agents, namely, gases and fumes given off in the atmosphere by the combustion of oils and fluids used in automobiles," Dr. Harrington declared. "Cases of gas fumes poisoning and cases of infantile paralysis agree in every essential."

"In infantile paralysis we are dealing with a chemical agent, and not a micro-organism. Infants and old persons are more susceptible to the malady."

"Although infantile paralysis has been epidemic for years, its prevalence in epidemic form dates from the introduction and wide use of the automobile."

HIGH COST OF LIVING BUMPED

Southeast Brainerd Butcher is Advertising a Cut in Meat Prices that Swings the Trade

Thursday, October 26, was "Sauer Kraut Day" in Brainerd. True, it's a new holiday and may not be known to the governor or the legislature, but it was instituted by Frank Milloch, 1304 Southeast Oak street, when he advertised a pound of spare ribs and a quart of sauer kraut all for the munificent sum of 15c.

It took Frank and two helpers to respond to telephone calls. Another delivery wagon had to be impressed into service.

The old delivery man had no time to even wave his hand at a customer.
The horses traveled on a run to get the sauer kraut and spare ribs distributed about town.

Had General Hindenberg or General Falkenhayn or even the German emperor come to Brainerd yesterday he would have considered he was in Teutonic country as the fragrant sauer kraut would have been wafted to their respective nostrils.

At the Best

unusual interest and timely action, featuring Clara Kimball Young, will be the attraction at the Best theatre tonight. This picture was directed by Albert Capellani and is released on the World Film program. Its scenes are laid in France and the Anglo-French battlefields and unwind a deep romance between a man and woman strangely separated, who, after years of mental torture, come face to face with each other after a series of most trying circumstances. It is a typical Clara Kimball Young picture, and all who love this popular star will see her at her best.

Manager Workman has booked "A Man's Making" for the Best theatre for Tuesday and Wednesday, October 31 and November 1. Dainty Rosetta Brice, the titian-haired beauty of the Lubin Company, and Richard Buhler, the popular American actor, are to be seen again in the leading roles of
Making" which is both written and produced by Director Jack Pratt of the Lubin forces. Mr. Buhler and Miss Brice are both well remembered for their sterling work in "The Rights of Man" which was recently shown in this city and they will be welcomed back in their newer effort.
The play is one dealing with the rise to the heights of success of a young and wild college youth who, disowned by his father for his boyhood pranks, goes out into the world alone to make a mark for himself and who later returns to save his father from the clutches of Wall street. The entire five acts are filled with the "picture punch" and with the many exceptional scenes of life at sea, the
two men in the cross trees of the storm-tossed fishing schooner and the guileless alley, called Wall street, there is red fire interest galore.

At the Best theatre next Thursday —When Mme. Petrova, dressed as an Italian girl, playing a hand organ and carrying a monkey on a chain, appeared in Fifth avenue, New York, recently, that famous thoroughfare became blocked in less than five minutes, and extra police were called out before traffic was resumed. Mme.
Petrova was playing the role before the motion picture camera for an interesting chapter in "The Eternal Question," a five-part Metro wonderplay, which will be shown here at the Best theatre next Thursday. This feature was produced by the Popular Plays and Players for the Metro program, and is said to be the greatest picture in which the celebrated Mme.
Petrova has ever appeared. She is surrounded by a strong supporting cast which includes Arthur Hoops, Mahlon Hamilton, Edward Martindell, Warren Oland, Harry Leone, Howard
Messimer and Evelyn Dumo.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Acting on the food products is the result of a con-full of foodstuffs, the health commission of the council began an investigation.

WOMAN'S REALM

Tried to Make the Coffee Clear

BY MARGARET MASON,
(Written for the United Press.)
Sure Mocha and Java, well mixed,
Is coffee I always have ordered for
mine,
My mother before me, my grandmother too
Have always insisted on this
blended brew,
But now I must shatter traditions, I see,
from one tree.
Sao Paulo, Brazil, Oct. 1 (By Mail)
—This certainly is going to be an awful blow to the domestic coffee con-
their lips and extol the elusive flavor
of the Java as it subtly intermingles
with the Mocha.

question for surprise when I found the Mocha and Java not only growing on
same branch of the family.

question is to take a night's train
trip from Rio to Sao Paulo. The state of Sao Paulo is the greatest
coffee growing country in the world.
It's capital, city of Sao Paulo, is justly dubbed the "Chicago of South America." A two hours run by train brings us to the little town of Campinas right out in the midst of the open rolling coffee country.

took us by auto out through the
coffee plantations. He is a king by my own dubbing. This successful North American from Lawrence, Kansas, chose to make light of my ap-
of Campinas. You see he controls the electric light plant and the traction line in Campinas as well as in
thirteen other small Brazilian towns.
Surely a neat little crown of inces-dent bulbs is not amiss above his brow.

I've heard of people painting the
to incarnadine further the country of Sao Paulo. All the soil is of a marvelous redness shading to vivid crim-
sons and rose. With its billowing
red hills it is startlingly reminiscent
of San Diego county, California.
Showing a Hibernian tendency these
trees above the red soil. As far as the eye can see the coffee plantations
trees.

To speak of coffee trees is very
except that the leaves are smaller.
The coffee berry itself looks like a
cherry turning from green to a
bright cherry red through its different stages of ripeness. Unlike the
leaves, closely fastened, without
has little pulp and no juice and the
of the berry like a cherry pit split in-
to halves.

And here is where the difference between the Mocha and Java comes
in. Not being a prize student of botany I don't know the technical terms
but something happens to the stamen
of some coffee blossoms so that they
the perfect Mocha beans are large
taste when they are all ground up together.

tlest tots help in the harvest. Everybody works, even father. The picking consists in stripping all the berries off right down the branch. As

poor old coffee tree looks a bit denuded.

The berries are striped off and allowed to fall on the ground where
in baskets.

The next step is to spread them out
on an open cement court to dry in the sun.

When the berries are all shriveled
and dried to the consistency of husks
they are put through successive machines that husk them and separate
the Mocha beans from the Java.
They finally land in sacks ready to be shipped down to Santos and exported.

As you sip your Turkish, French
or, U. S. A., coffee you may be almost sure it has a Brazilian past. For it
good old native Brazilian bean becomes disguised as a terrible Turk or in true Parisian manner, starts a liason with chicoree and becomes "cafe."

percolated.

The wedding of Miss Elsie Gatten to James Starr took place last eve-three years.

They were accompanied by Mr.

in-law and sister of the bride, who served as best man and matron of honor. The newly married young people will make their home in Brainerd for the future. Best wishes are extended them.

World to Play Under Auspices
Brainerd Musical Club

The Zoellner string quartet will give a concert at Elks hall on Wednesday evening, November 1, under the auspices of the Brainerd Musical
club.

as one of the great string quartets of the world, and the European success of this superb organization is being
duplicated in America.

A lofty adherence to classic tradi-
a refreshing spontaneity of effort
combine to produce the flawless ensemble, the exquisite shadings and
the tonal beauty which characterizes
the playing of the Zoellners.

chamber music concert, especially the
highest in music, for through the
string quartet one meets face to face
shrine.

and great interest. In the matter of
critique said in his criticism of the
art," and this same opinion is always verified by their audiences.

The annual New York, Boston, etc., recitals of the Zoellner Quartet are
now looked forward to as events of
the musical season and in each suc-
discovered new beauties in the playing of these remarkable artists. Nothing, perhaps, speaks more eloquently
for the definite growth of musical
taste in America than the almost instant success that has come to the Zoellner String Quartet.

BLAME MOTOR CARS FOR BABY PLAGUE

Cincinnati, Oct. 27.—Automobiles,
not germs, are to blame for the epidemic of infantile paralysis that has
assertion made by Dr. Thomas F. Harrington, deputy commissioner of health
of Massachusetts, in an address before
the annual convention here of the American Public Health association.

"Infantile paralysis is due to chemi-
given off in the atmosphere by the
combustion of oils and fluids used in
automobiles," Dr. Harrington declared. "Cases of gas fumes poisoning
and cases of infantile paralysis agree
in every essential."

"In infantile paralysis we are dealing with a chemical agent, and not a micro-organism. Infants and old persons are more susceptible to the malady."
"Although infantile paralysis has
been epidemic for years, its prevalence
in epidemic form dates from the introduction and wide use of the automobile."

SAUER KRAUT

Southeast Brainerd Butcher is Adver-
Swings the Trade

Thursday, October 26, was "Sauer Kraut Day" in Brainerd. True, it's
to the governor or the legislature, but it was instituted by Frank Milloch,
advertised a pound of spare ribs and
a quart of sauer kraut all for the
munificent sum of 15c.

It took Frank and two helpers to respond to telephone calls. Another
delivery wagon had to be impressed
into service.

The old delivery man had no time
to even wave his hand at a customer.
The horses traveled on a run to get
the sauer kraut and spare ribs distributed about town.

eral Falkenhayn or even the German
emperor come to Brainerd yesterday
he would have considered he was in Teutonic country as the fragrant
to their respective nostrils.

At the Best

unusual interest and timely action,
featuring Clara Kimball Young, will
be the attraction at the Best theatre
tonight. This picture was directed by Albert Capellani and is released on
the World Film program. Its scenes are laid in France and the Anglo-French battlefields and unwind a
deep romance between a man and wo-
years of mental torture, come face to face with each other after a series of
most trying circumstances. It is a typical Clara Kimball Young picture,
and all who love this popular star
will see her at her best.

Man's Making" for the Best theatre
for Tuesday and Wednesday, October 31 and November 1. Dainty Rosetta Brice, the titian-haired beauty of the Lubin Company, and Richard Buhler, the popular American actor, are to
Making" which is both written and
produced by Director Jack Pratt of
the Lubin forces. Mr. Buhler and Miss Brice are both well remembered for their sterling work in "The
shown in this city and they will be welcomed back in their newer effort.

and wild college youth who, dis-
owned by his father for his boyhood
to make a mark for himself and who later returns to save his father from
the clutches of Wall street. The entire five acts are filled with the "picture punch" and with the many exceptional scenes of life at sea, the
storm-tossed fishing schooner and the
guileless alley, called Wall street,
there is red fire interest galore.

At the Best theatre next Thursday
—When Mme. Petrova, dressed as an
and carrying a monkey on a chain,
appeared in Fifth avenue, New York,
recently, that famous thoroughfare
became blocked in less than five minutes, and extra police were called out
before traffic was resumed. Mme.
Petrova was playing the role before
the motion picture camera for an interesting chapter in "The Eternal Question," a five-part Metro won-
derplay, which will be shown here at
feature was produced by the Popular Plays and Players for the Metro program, and is said to be the greatest picture in which the celebrated Mme.
Petrova has ever appeared. She is surrounded by a strong supporting
cast which includes Arthur Hoops, Mablon Hamilton, Edward Martindel, Warren Oland, Harry Leone, Howard
Messimer and Evelyn Dumo.

A NATION ON STRIKE

Belgian resistance has not ended with the military subjugation of the country. There is no more armed opposition to the invaders; there is no sniping or bombing or stabbing or poisoning, such as might be expected among a people embittered by wrong and hardship. But there is a far more effective form of warfare—passive resistance.

Having conquered the Belgians, the Germans find that they can do nothing whatever with them. According to Director Bicknell of the American National Red Cross, the whole nation is on strike. It simply refuses to work for the Germans. Not only are the people unwilling to make munitions to be used against their own countrymen and allies, but they will not perform labor that contributes indirectly to Germany's military operations. Rather than help their conquerors, they endure any hardship.

A good case in point is that of the big railroad repair shops at Malines. The German government, finding that the rolling stock of the Belgian railways was wearing out under its operation, tried to force the Belgian workmen back into the shops. They refused to come. The government ordered that no more food should be distributed by the relief committee until the men returned to work. Farmers and gardeners were forbidden to bring in their produce. Inhabitants were forbidden to leave. A barbed-wire fence was erected around the city, and sentries posted. Still the Belgian citizens refused to work for the Germans, and finally the effort was abandoned.

A nation like that cannot be conquered. Even if Germany should end the war victoriously, it would be unprofitable for her to hold Belgium. She would have nothing but trouble without end. The people would never submit to her rule. She might just as well make up her mind to let Belgium go.

DENATURED ONIONS

Some erring disciple of Burbank, addressing the Vegetable Growers' Association of America in Chicago, urged his hearers to develop an "odorless onion."

This is worse than gilding refined gold, painting the lily or throwing a perfume on the violet. Those follies, as Shakespeare very properly remarks, "were wasteful and ridiculous excess," but they were nothing more. The proposal now before us goes contrary to nature. It is as if we should undertake to take the yellow from gold or the white from the lily or the perfume from the violet.

An onion, needless to say, when deprived of its odor would no longer be an onion. All the virtue and sanctity that have slung to this bulbous edible—and to those who partake of it—for thousands of years would vanish. We should have something that might look like an onion, but would smell and taste like so much neutral and insipid pulp.

Denaturing the onion would be an unforgivable sin against vegetable creation. Denaturing an onion breath, however, as the Tacoma Tribune justly remarks, is a different matter. Although such a breath is to its possessor a thing of ineffable satisfaction, it lacks charm for others. The proper protection is for everybody to eat onions; then everybody is happy, and there's no difference. But until the cult of the onion becomes as universal as it was in ancient Egypt, where they worshipped this delicate vegetable, it is permissible for the scientists to seek some method of deodorizing the too fragrant breath of devotees.

CRITICIZE ADAMSON LAW

Members of the various railroad brotherhoods in many states are resenting the efforts of their national officers to deliver their votes to President Wilson, because of his support of the Adamson law. They feel that their officers are attempting to make them mere pawns on the political checkerboard and they refuse to be delivered. This was the statement made today by Arthur D. Burbank, chairman of the legislative board of Railroad Trainmen in Illinois. Mr. Burbank, whose duties require him to visit various lodges of his organization declared that there was a decided trend toward Hughes among railroad men and that it daily is growing stronger, as the men have opportunity to study and discuss the so-called eight-hour law.

"The sentiment in favor of Wilson is disappearing," said Mr. Burbank, "and the evident attempt of the grand lodge officers to influence the membership is reacting. The railroad men as a class are pretty independent in politics and they do not want their officers to tell them how they should vote. The men who have always been democrats are shouting a little louder than usual in this campaign, but the men who have always been republicans have not changed and are going to vote for Hughes."

"As to the Adamson law, few of our members understand it and all are more or less suspicious of it. Many feel that in departing from the established custom of joint conference and direct wage adjustments, the brotherhoods have made a great mistake."

"I have found many of our members who are more ready to criticize than to praise our national officers for dragging them into the political arena. The brotherhoods have made substantial progress in the last ten years through their economic forces and the members feel that all that work has been lost and that wages and working conditions are now merely political issues."

"In the last two weeks I have noticed a decided change in sentiment, especially in Illinois. Our members have not forgotten the conditions which prevailed two years ago, when train crews were laid off by hundreds and thousands. They understand that the present prosperity is temporary, due entirely to the European war and they want to see their bread and butter placed on a firmer foundation. They are afraid that the re-election of Wilson and a democratic congress will result in a return to the deplorable conditions of two years ago before the war gave a temporary stimulus to industry."

COMMUNICATION

Editor Dispatch:

I was certainly much amused when I read "My Platform" in last night's issue. Listen, here is something rich:

"I firmly believe in the rule of the people, and if elected shall support every measure which may tend to increase the power of the people in state government."

Why not apply the same principle to county government?

His record in this exenexusable Gull lake road hotch conflicts so radically and conspicuously with his "Platform" as to be laughable.

One rarely sees an instance where one of Lincoln's favorite aphorisms about fooling the people applies so conspicuously and pointedly.

Russian Royalty and Way of Living

BY WM. PHILIP SIMMS, (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

(Note.—Following is the fourth of a series of five articles by Simms, giving a close up of Russian royalty and the way of life and work at imperial army headquarters. This series concludes Mr. Simms' special assignment to Russia and he has now returned to France.)

Imperial Headquarters, Russian Army, Oct. 4 (By Mail).—From this place every day about half past twelve o'clock, over special wires, flash the orders of the emperor and his Chief of Staff Alexieff to the generals commanding the 700 miles of front.

If you have eyes that can see through house-tops and brick walls, you will see scores of uniformed officers poring over maps and plans; aides hurrying from one department to another; orderlies standing at ramrod attention back of busy generals; a crown prince learning how to govern; a czar conferring with his staff. You will see all these important acts which send a half million men to the attack, to the forcing of a stream, to the taking of an enemy redoubt. The clash of cavalry, the thunder of big guns, the offensives against Lemberg and Kovel and all the other places—all are controlled from here.

Yet, if you have the eyes of ordinary mortals, you see none of this and grand general headquarters, at the Stavka, as the Russians call it, is the dearest, dullest place in all Russia.

Unless you have plenty of work to keep you occupied, this is no place for you. This is no health resort, no place for tired business men, no amusement center for neurotics and rouses. Everybody here has a job and he keeps at it and if you have none you are in for a rotten time.

Ordinarily about 20,000 people live here. Now, with the military, the population is about double this. Still the narrow, roughly cobbled streets are seldom crowded because most of the 40,000 people are busy inside. In the dingy shop-windows one sees American tooth washes, American sewing machines, American typewriters, American bicycles and advertisements for American harvesting machines.

A long, one-story house of hewn logs, unpainted and weathered to a somber gray, back a little way from the main street, is by tradition, the scene of a meeting between Katherine the Great, of Russia, and Emperor Frederick, of Prussia, in 1722. Now it is divided into two parts and a family lives in each.

A red brick "opera house" in the middle of the town, the house of the local governor wherein Sazr Nicholas II now finds quarters with his 12 year-old heir, Alexis Nikolaievich, a rather handsome Catholic church, several equally handsome Greek Orthodox churches; the street market; the view from the terrace back of the emperor's quarters, make up the principle sights of the place.

A long, very narrow street, between two rows of whitewashed stone buildings, whose roofs are almost low enough to be touched by the extended hand, looks inviting. Here are strange shops kept by very hairy men. Their wares are principally articles for the peasants—charcoal stoves, ropes, coarse cotton goods, shovels, hoes, fur and near-fur caps, heavy boots and the like. As one looks with interest into a barlike place where "kvass," a Russian drink made from fermented black bread but non-alcoholic, one almost gets run over by a little car made by the man who made the peace party famous. In it were Russian officers.

Lunch at the officers' mess is the real break in the day here. Only it does not last long. General Alexieff sees to that. At 1:30 sharp he enters on the run, passes rapidly down a lane of officers standing at salute, seats himself at his table and the waiters begin to serve. In 35 minutes he rushes out again. He wastes not a minute.

Still one has time to take a look around chewing as he looks. Down the hall a way is Captain McCall, the British attaché, the dapperest of all. There is the French lieutenant, wearing a black monocle; and a French captain who has been twice wounded, according to insignia worn on his sleeve. Then there are the Belgian attaches, and the Italian, the Serbian, Japanese and Portuguese. They are all very well in their various uniforms and for a few minutes one gets the "feeling" that he is really at army headquarters and that there is a great world war going on, that there is a mighty European coalition.

Suddenly an orderly hands you your cap and cane and you find yourself in the street again. Tired from morning rambles you hunt something more restful to do and suddenly, as you pass a kiosk, you spy among an array of newspapers and periodicals printed in Russia, a paper-backed volume, with this title, in English upon it.

"The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes." It was a heavy, but Sherlock entertained till dinner time. After that came a visit to one of the jammed movie theatres and then bed.

BRITAIN'S GRIP ON TRADE DISCLOSED

Report Furnishes Treasury Department a Surprise.

PENALTIES CAUSE DISCOVERY

Investigation Started to Determine What Goods Should Be Subjected to Treble Duties—Modification of Law May Be Asked.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Investigation has been started by the treasury department to determine what kind of raw materials imported from the British empire should be subjected to thrice the regular customs duties in accordance with the recently passed legislation penalizing the importation of goods under restrictions upon other dealings of the importers.

Publication of results of an investigation at the state department showing that Great Britain has built up a series of contracts to which importers of many of her raw materials must submit created great surprise in both treasury and other official circles, not only because of the extent of the alleged domination of American trade revealed, but because attention was called to the applicability of paragraph 802 of the revenue bill, which apparently had escaped notice.

Treasury officials did not conceal their concern over the unexpected information and indicated that as far as they knew the legislation would be applicable immediately.

Directed Against Germans.

Indeed, they said, its provisions are mandatory and not discretionary, as with the other retaliatory acts. The first legislation which has been passed to protect American trade after the war and which was aimed strangely enough, some officials pointed out, especially at the German dye importers would seem to apply during the war and against the British. Section 802 had been introduced into the revenue bill, it was explained, at the instance of the department of commerce simply to prevent German dye importers from forcing American firms who bought part of their dyes in Germany to buy all of them there.

Great difficulty, it was pointed out, will be experienced in enforcing the legislation.

The department can act only in the case of each individual importation and they only on proof that the law has been violated.

Officials indicate that, as the results likely to ensue from an enforcement of the act are so opposite to its purpose and so questionable as to public interest that an attempt may be made to have it modified as soon as congress reconvenes.

Woisey's Rise.

Now that fast going is common it may be mentioned that the ability to establish a speed record was responsible for the first rise of Cardinal Woisey from a humble position. It was when he was chaplain to Henry VIII. that he was sent into the low countries with a letter to the Emperor Maximilian. Leaving London by boat at 4 o'clock, Woisey took horse at Gravesend, reached Dover next morning, Calais three hours later and was with the emperor that night. An equally rapid return brought him back to the king in little more than two days and won him his first taste of royal favor.—London Spectator.

Joint Commission in Session at Atlantic City Issues Statement Bearing on Border Situation—Some Carranza Troops Said to Be Inactive.

Chihuahua City, Mex., Oct. 27.—The Carranza troops are executing an enveloping movement around Santa Ysabel to trap the Villa forces, General Trevino said.

Bandit forces were defeated in a brush with de facto troops at Babicora, seventy-five miles south of Casas Grandes, a message from General Gonzalez says.

The fight took place on the Hearst ranch and the bandits are believed to be part of the band reported in the vicinity of Namiquipa.

The force of 300 Carranza troops reported camped at El Valle, between the American field headquarters and the extreme outpost of the American lines are said to be making no effort to oppose the bandits near Namiquipa.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 27.—Reports that Villa was driving back Mexican de facto government troops in Chihuahua were denied in a statement issued by the Mexican-American joint commission in session here.

Explanation also was made of the absence from Mexico at this time of the wives of Generals Carranza and Obregon.

FRAUDS CHARGED IN IOWA ELECTION

Des Moines, Oct. 27.—Attorneys acting in the interests of the prohibition forces throughout the state filed a petition in the Polk county district court asking that the special election of June 5 be set aside and that the defendants in the suit be enjoined from publishing the results of the election in the State Journal, as the official and correct results of the election.

The petition specifically charges irregularities in the conduct of the June election, at which the proposed amendment to the constitution enfranchising women was defeated. In 50 per cent of the counties, it is charged, precinct election officials kept no record of the voters who received special ballots.

It is pointed out that if the election is thrown out and the decision is sustained by the supreme court the suffrage question will be given the same status as before the June election and may come up again without a five-year wait.

A NATION ON STRIKE

Belgian resistance has not ended with the military subjugation of the country. There is no more armed opposition to the invaders; there is no sniping or bombing or stabbing or poisoning, such as might be expected among a people embittered by wrong and hardship. But there is a far more effective form of warfare—passive resistance.

Having conquered the Belgians, the Germans find that they can do nothing whatever with them. According to Director Bicknell of the American National Red Cross, the whole nation is on strike. It simply refuses to work for the Germans. Not only are the people unwilling to make munitions to be used against their own countrymen and allies, but they will not perform labor that contributes indirectly to Germany's military operations. Rather than help their conquerors, they endure any hardship.

A good case in point is that of the big railroad repair shops at Malines. The German government, finding that the rolling stock of the Belgian railways was wearing out under its operation, tried to force the Belgian workmen back into the shops. They refused to come. The government ordered that no more food should be distributed by the relief committee until the men returned to work. Farmers and gardeners were forbidden to bring in their produce. Inhabitants were forbidden to leave. A barbed-wire fence was erected around the city, and sentries posted. Still the Belgian citizens refused to work for the Germans, and finally the effort was abandoned.

A nation like that cannot be conquered. Even if Germany should end the war victoriously, it would be unprofitable for her to hold Belgium. She would have nothing but trouble without end. The people would never submit to her rule. She might just as well make up her mind to let Belgium go.

DENATURED ONIONS

Some erring disciple of Burbank, addressing the Vegetable Growers' Association of America in Chicago, urged his hearers to develop an "odorless onion."

This is worse than gilding refined gold, painting the lily or throwing a perfume on the violet. Those follies, as Shakespeare very properly remarks, "were wasteful and ridiculous excess," but they were nothing more. The proposal now before us goes contrary to nature. It is as if we should undertake to take the yellow from gold or the white from the lily or the perfume from the violet.

An onion, needless to say, when deprived of its odor would no longer be an onion. All the virtue and sanctity that have slung to this bulbous edible—and to those who partake of it—for thousands of years would vanish. We should have something that might look like an onion, but would smell and taste like so much neutral and insipid pulp.

Denaturing the onion would be an unforgivable sin against vegetable creation. Denaturing an onion breath, however, as the Tacoma Tribune justly remarks, is a different matter. Although such a breath is to its possessor a thing of ineffable satisfaction, it lacks charm for others. The proper protection is for everybody to eat onions; then everybody is happy, and there's no difference. But until the cult of the onion becomes as universal as it was in ancient Egypt, where they worshipped this delicate vegetable, it is permissible for the scientists to seek

some method of deodorizing the too fragrant breath of devotees.

Members of the various railroad brotherhoods in many states are resenting the efforts of their national officers to deliver their votes to President Wilson, because of his support of the Adamson law. They feel that their officers are attempting to make them mere pawns on the political checkerboard and they refuse to be delivered. This was the statement made today by Arthur D. Burbank, chairman of the legislative board of Railroad Trainmen in Illinois. Mr. Burbank, whose duties require him to visit various lodges of his organization declared that there was a decided trend toward Hughes among railroad men and that it daily is growing stronger, as the men have opportunity to study and discuss the so-called eight-hour law.

"The sentiment in favor of Wilson is disappearing," said Mr. Burbank, "and the evident attempt of the grand lodge officers to influence the membership is reacting. The railroad men as a class are pretty independent in politics and they do not want their officers to tell them how they should vote. The men who have always been democrats are shouting a little louder than unusual in this campaign, but the men who have always been republicans have not changed and are going to vote for Hughes."

"As to the Adamson law, few of our members understand it and all are more or less suspicious of it. Many feel that in departing from the established custom of joint conference and direct wage adjustments, the brotherhoods have made a great mistake."

"I have found many of our members who are more ready to criticize than to praise our national officers for dragging them into the political arena. The brotherhoods have made substantial progress in the last ten years through their economic forces and the members feel that all that work has been lost and that wages and working conditions are now merely political issues."

"In the last two weeks I have noticed a decided change in sentiment, especially in Illinois. Our members have not forgotten the conditions which prevailed two years ago, when train crews were laid off by hundreds and thousands. They understand that the present prosperity is temporary, due entirely to the European war and they want to see their bread and butter placed on a firmer foundation. They are afraid that the re-election of Wilson and a democratic congress will result in a return to the deplorable conditions of two years ago before the war gave a temporary stimulus to industry."

COMMUNICATION

Editor Dispatch:

I was certainly much amused when I read "My Platform" in last night's issue. Listen, here is something rich:

"I firmly believe in the rule of the people, and if elected shall support every measure which may tend to increase the power of the people in state government."

Why not apply the same principle to county government?

His record in this encephalic Gull lake road both conflicts so radically and conspicuously with his "Platform" as to be laughable.

One rarely sees an instance where one of Lincoln's favorite aphorisms about fooling the people applies so conspicuously and pointedly.

Russian Royalty and Way of Living

(Note.—Following is the fourth of a series of five articles by Simms, giving a close up of Russian royalty and the way of life and work at imperial army headquarters. This series concludes Mr. Simms' special assignment to Russia and he has now returned to France.)

Imperial Headquarters, Russian Army, Oct. 4 (By Mail).—From this place every day about half past twelve o'clock, over special wires, flash the orders of the emperor and his Chief of Staff Alexieff to the generals commanding the 700 miles of front.

If you have eyes that can see through house-tops and brick walls, you will see scores of uniformed officers poring over maps and plans; aides hurrying from one department to another; orderlies standing at ramrod attention back of busy generals; a crown prince learning how to govern; a czar conferring with his staff. You will see all these important acts which send a half million men to the attack, to the forcing of a stream, to the taking of an enemy redoubt. The clash of cavalry, the thunder of big guns, the offensives against Lemberg and Kovel and all the other places—all are controlled from here.

Yet, if you have the eyes of ordinary mortals, you see none of this and grand general headquarters, or the Stavka, as the Russians call it, is the dearest, dullest place in all Russia.

Unless you have plenty of work to keep you occupied, this is no place for you. This is no health resort, no place for tired business men, no amusement center for neurotics and rousers. Everybody here has a job and he keeps at it and if you have none you are in for a rotten time.

Ordinarily about 20,000 people live here. Now, with the military, the population is about double this. Still the narrow, roughly cobbled streets are seldom crowded because most of the 40,000 people are busy inside. In the dingy shop-windows one sees American tooth washes, American sewing machines, American typewriters, American bicycles and advertisements for American harvesting machines.

A long, one-story house of hewn logs, unpainted and weathered to a somber gray, back a little way from the main street, is by tradition, the scene of a meeting between Katherine the Great, of Russia, and Emperor Frederick, of Prussia, in 1726. Now it is divided into two parts and a family lives in each.

A red brick "opera house" in the middle of the town, the house of the local governor wherein Szar Nicholas II now finds quarters with his 12 year-old heir, Alexis Nikolaevitch, a rather handsome Catholic church, several equally handsome Greek Orthodox churches; the street market; the view from the terrace back of the emperor's quarters, make up the principle sights of the place.

A long, very narrow street, between two rows of whitewashed stone buildings, whose roofs are almost low enough to be touched by the extended hand, looks inviting. Here are strange shops kept by very hairy men. Their wares are principally articles for the peasants—charcoal stoves, ropes, coarse cotton goods, shovels, hoes, fur and near-fur caps, heavy boots and the like. As one looks with interest into a barlike place where "kvass," a Russian drink made from fermented black bread and non-alcoholic, one almost gets run over by a little car made by the man who made the peace party famous. In it were Russian officers.

Lunch at the officers' mess is the real break in the day here. Only it does not last long. General Alexieff sees to that. At 1:30 sharp he enters on the run, passes rapidly down a lane of officers standing at salute, seats himself at his table and the waiters begin to serve. In 35 minutes he rushes out again. He wastes not a minute.

Still one has time to take a look around chewing as he looks. Down the hall a way is Captain McCall, the British attaché, the dapperest one of all. There is the French lieutenant, wearing a black monocle; and a French captain who has been twice wounded, according to insignia worn on his sleeve. Then there are the Belgian attachés, and the Italian, the Serbian, Japanese and Portuguese. They are all very swell in their various uniforms and for a few minutes one gets the "feeling" that he is really at army headquarters and that there is a great world war going on, that there is a mighty European coalition.

Suddenly an orderly hands you your cap and cane and you find yourself in the street again. Tired from morning rambles you hunt something more restful to do and suddenly, as you pass a kiosk, you spy among an array of newspapers and periodicals printed in Russia, a paper-backed volume, with this title, in English upon it.

"The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes." It was a hersy, but Sherlock entertained till dinner time. After that came a visit to one of the jammed movie theatres and then bed.

State Supreme Court Affirms His Decision in the Case of Benn A. Wagner vs Clarence Olson

CONCERNED LIEN ON AN AUTO

Judge McClenahan Held Appeal from Municipal to District Court Had Not Been Properly Made

In the case of Benn A. Wagner, of Pequot, appellant, vs Clarence Olson, et al, of Brainerd, respondents, the State Supreme Court has affirmed the decision rendered by Judge W. S. McClenahan of the district court, where in he held he had no authority to place the case on the last November term calendar of the district court as the appeal was not properly taken from the municipal court.

The case was originally tried in the municipal court before Judge Gustav Halvorson and concerned the ownership of an automobile and the determination of a lien claimed by Olson for repairs.

The municipal court found for Olson and Wagner attempted to take an appeal to the district court. From the order of the district court Wagner appealed to the State Supreme Court. Senator George H. Gardner was attorney for Wagner and Walter F. Wieland appeared for Olson.

The State Supreme Court decision, in full, follows:

PER CURIAM

This action was commenced in the municipal court of Brainerd to recover possession of an automobile. Intervener claimed to own the car, and defendant claimed a lien thereon. The trial resulted in a judgment in favor of the intervener and defendant and against plaintiff. This judgment was entered August 30, 1915. On September 3rd plaintiff filed in the municipal court an affidavit of appeal to the district court of Crow Wing county, and gave the attorney for defendant and the intervener written notice of appeal. The next general term of the district court commenced November 2, 1915. The case was not on the calendar for that term, no return having been made. Plaintiff's attorney moved the court for an order compelling the clerk of the municipal court to make a return so that the case could be placed upon the calendar and tried at the term of the district court then in session. The court denied this motion, on the ground that no bond on appeal had been given, or the appeal allowed.

Thereafter and on November 27th a bond on appeal was approved by the judge of the municipal court, appeal allowed, and a return made to the district court. On the 29th plaintiff gave notice of a motion to have the case placed upon the calendar of the term of the district court then in session. This motion was denied and plaintiff appealed to this court.

The court below was of the opinion that it was without authority to grant plaintiff's motion. A reading of the statutes concerning the prosecution of appeals from courts of justices of the peace is sufficient to establish the soundness of the learned court's position. G. S. 1913, Sec. 7602, provides that no appeal shall be allowed unless within ten days after judgment is entered an affidavit is filed with the justice, a bond executed and approved by the justice, and a notice of appeal served upon the opposite party. No bond was executed or approved until long after the ten days had expired. The justice did not allow the appeal, and had no right to, because the jurisdictional prerequisites had not been complied with and no return was or could legally have been made to the district court within twenty days after filing the notice of appeal, and before the first day of the next general term of the district court. Secs. 7603-7604.

Section 7609 has no application, as there was no motion to dismiss the appeal because no bond was given, and no application to the district court to approve a bond. Indeed the record shows that plaintiff had every opportunity to perfect his appeal in time, but failed to do so.

Order affirmed.

Jack Hendrickson, in contempt of court because he has not paid his wife the alimony ordered by the court is having an experience convincing him that life is not all a bed of roses.

Arrested ten days ago, he was lodged in the county jail and extricated himself by giving Mrs. Hendrickson a mortgage on some hay, payable in ten days. It now develops he did not own the hay, and he was again taken in custody.

The case did not come up in court this morning. Negotiations are under way to liquidate the balance claimed by Mrs. Hendrickson.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES TODAY

This is one where the reporter was fairly godmother assistant to Mr. Stork's chief deputy. It happened in the early morning hours when the reporter was forced by necessity to empty the ash pan of his coal stove. He looked down the dark street and saw a search light bobbing along and lantern in hand he awaited the coming of the stranger.

"Are you the man waiting for me?" asked the pleasant lady. "Who did you want to see?" queried the Dispatch man in return.

"A man was to be near the school house corner with a lantern, waiting for me," said the lady.

She was put on the right course for the school house and eventually got the right man, who had gone half way to meet her on the momentous occasion. It shows again the necessity of street lighting and how a life may hang in the balance in dark Brainerd.

It was grandpa's birthday and little grandson, two years old, had been drilled to make the presentation speech and give grandpa his present. Grandpa came home and the surprise, diligently rehearsed, was ready to be sprung. On the way over the rugs, grandson stubbed his toe, the speech was lost in transit but he landed in grandpa's lap all right with the present tightly clutched in his hand.

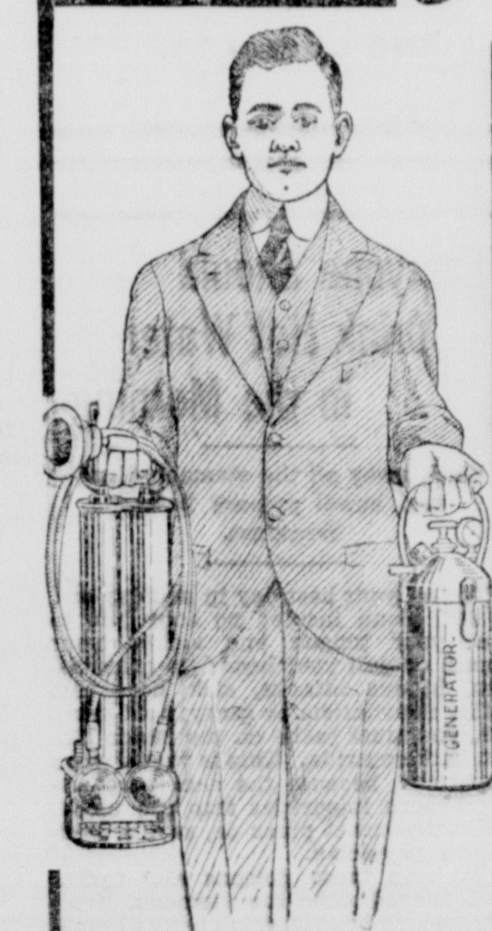

Taking their cue from the republicans of Brainerd, democrats about the state are also staging torch light processions. In the early days many a patriot shouldered one of these bobbing torches and when his wife examined his coat in the morning she found great dabs of kerosene imbedded in the back.

It was in Folsom's music store and the lady was asking for piano pieces.

"Have you ever played 'In Dixie'?" asked the polite clerk. "No," said the lady, as she revolved the matter in her mind. "I used to live in North Dakota before I came to Brainerd."

So far the campaign has developed no keynote song at the border or in the camps of peace. The old campaign days were showered with more music, more debates, more street corner arguments. Even the corner grocery where prices have jumped on all commodities, is no longer a lounging place to settle the affairs of the nation and the free hand outs are a thing of the past. The day of the quiet, independent voter who takes great satisfaction in marking his own ballot just as he has weighed the matter—that day has arrived.

FIVE CENTS STRAIGHT AND WORTH IT!

Owing to the greatly increased cost of quality tobaccos, in fact everything pertaining to high grade cigars, the makers of the San Felice cigar, The Delsel-Wenmer Company, have advanced the selling price to the Jobbers and Dealers and henceforth this cigar will positively be sold to the consumer at 5 cents straight instead of six for a quarter as previously.

The SAN FELICE is national in its scope and character, having justly attained this eminence through its unexcelled excellence. To maintain this unequalled standard of quality, the advance in question is absolutely unequal men using quality cigars is earnestly desired.

BELIEVES SON ENEMY VICTIM

Mother of Sergeant Kastner Doubts Cause of His Death.

Sheboygan, Wis., Oct. 27.—That Sergeant August Kastner of the United States marines was shot by a comrade and not by a rebel in the battle in Santo Domingo is the belief of his mother, Mrs. Adam Kastner, and his brothers and sisters here. They base their belief on letters received from him in the past few months, in which he told of the enemies in his own command—older men, who were jealous because of his promotions over them.

Tuesday morning Kastner's sister received a letter from him, dated Oct. 3, and a few hours later his mother received the brief message, "August Kastner shot and killed." The message was received before the press dispatches telling of the battle. His relatives have cabled for particulars. Kastner was twenty-nine years old. He was leader of the Second Regiment band.

GAME HERE THIS SATURDAY

Three and Possibly Four Regulars Who Played Brainerd Before, May be Out of Line-Up

Hist! Fellows! It's a camp of cripples that's coming up from Little Falls to play Brainerd high this Saturday, October 28, at least that's the report being sent out. Witness this from the Little Falls Transcript:

The Little Falls high school eleven will go to Brainerd Saturday with a crippled team for its return game with Brainerd high. Three, and possibly four, of its regulars who played against Brainerd in the first game here will be out of the line-up and the team will be much weakened. Coach Liljedahl thinks he will be able to beat Brainerd, at least by a small margin, but expects to have a hard time rounding a team into shape.

Blake, quarterback, is out of the line-up for this week because of scholastic difficulties, but will be able to play against Anoka Nov. 4. The most promising candidate for this position is Charles Fortier, who, although light, has plenty of speed. Coach Liljedahl is working him out at quarter-back in practice. Dobbyn may not be able to get into the game Saturday. He had a vertebra dislocated last Saturday in the St. Cloud game. If he plays he will probably be shifted to end and Richard will take one of the halfback positions. Perry has pneumonia poisoning and Palmer or Byllemans will replace him.

Extra linemen who will probably accompany the team are Dickerson, Warren Sims and Dewey. The trip will be made in automobiles. Brainerd is out to get revenge for its defeat here two weeks ago and a hard game is expected. Little Falls beat Brainerd once last year and once this year, the former win being its first from a Brainerd team for many years. The score this year was 34 to 0.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of Limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headaches, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up!
As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.
